

Adding a picture to your post

Adding a picture to your post is quick and easy within the MVOR website. In the in screen editor, there is a small picture icon.

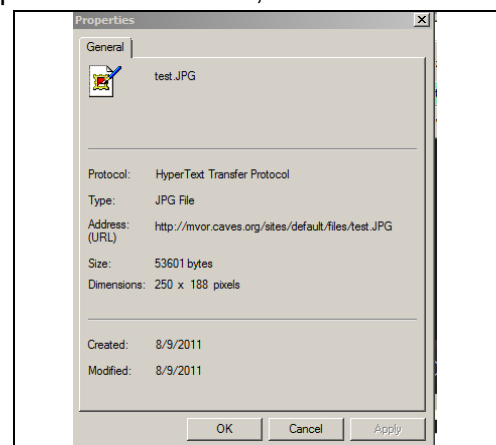

When you click this icon, the Image Properties window is displayed. From this window, you can insert your image. To insert your image, you will need one piece of information, the URL (location of the image).

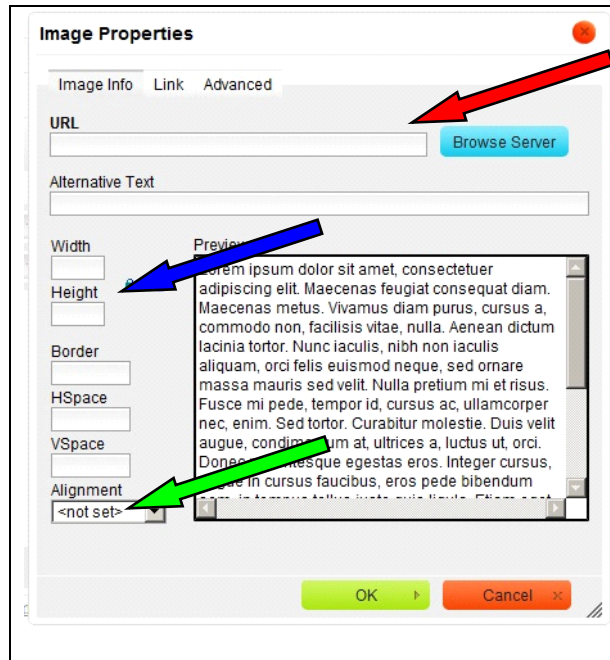

To get the location/url of an image in Internet Explorer, right click the image and select properties. The properties tab will have the Address/url/location. You can copy and paste this.

The Address URL information that you gleamed from other sources, can know be added to your MVOR discussion board post.

Place your image location information in the URL box within the Image Properties box. If you want to alter the display size of the image, you can adjust the width and height. The alignment drop down box will allow you to adjust the position of your image within the text.

A sample from Internet Explorer's property tab.

The red arrow indicates the location of your image.

The blue arrow highlights the width and height.

The green arrow points to the drop down box that allows you to set your alignment.

The OK button at the bottom confirms your selection.

Click cancel if you frustrated and want to give up.